After Dark and Trini Dinner

We begin with our Trini Dinner on the Lady Young lookout. From this vantage point we will get one of the most panoramic night views of the city. At this location you'll have the opportunity to meet and dine on barbeque or jerk with Yardie, a Trini-Maican who boasts that all Jerk other than his, is Joke. We then stop at the Savannah for a sampling session of corn soup, channa batura, locally called doubles, roti, Buf Flow wings or some of the other local delicacies. For our cultural emersion, we hop around the city to listen to some of the Steelbands practice for Panorama, the world's biggest Steelpan competition. We would also visit some of the Mas Camps to be enticed by the costumes that would be on display for the Carnival. Of course, we must conclude dinner with desert, so we'll head to St. James for some homemade ice cream. We'll complete our evening with a crawl of Ariapita Avenue and a night cap at one of its many popular hangouts.

All participants should come with a healthy appetite (no eating after lunch) and comfortable walking shoes to maximize on this Trini Baptism.

Cost of this programme is $85US per person and includes; Food and drinks, transport and guides. Duration: 4½ hours.
